

My name is Lisa Maxwell and I have recently heard about the grotesque experimentation you want to perform involving human embryonic stem cells and animal cells. I strongly object to this kind of experimentation, and even more strongly object to you using Americans' hard-earned tax dollars for such an atrocity. The mere thought of performing such a thing shows your great ignorance of Natural Law, and even more so your irresponsibility when dealing with the implications of such a project. Just because you are ABLE to do something doesn't mean that you SHOULD do something. Please reconsider. Sincerely, Lisa Maxwell
